Henry Cabot Lodge, center, went before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee for questioning about the role Lodge will assume as the chief U.S. negotiator at the Vietnam peace

Chance for Cease-Fire Is Considered by Lodge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry Cabot Lodge said Friday he is not a hard liner or a soft liner but a realist who will do everything in his power to advance Vietnam peace talks in Paris.

Lodge, named by President-elect Nixon as his chief negotiator in the talks, was quoted by members as having told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee he thinks it is "entirely possible" that some U.S. troop withdrawals from Vietnam could begin this year.

There was disagreement among the members as to whether he expressed the opinion that a cease-fire must precede such withdrawals.

Lodge, appearing at a closed committee session, emphasized that he was giving his personal views.

The committee has no nomination before it and chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said Lodge may be appointed a personal representative of the President, an action that would not require confirmation.

The committee has decided to await Nixon's formal appointment of William P. Rogers as secretary of state and of Elliot L. Richardson as undersectary before acting on them. Fulbright said. He added that they could be acted upon Monday afternoon if they are formally nominated by the new president then.

Lodge told the committee members he is approaching a task of "supreme importance" at Paris with the determination to do everything in his power to bring about a peace settlement.

Leaving the committee room, he told newsmen: "I don't think I'm a hardliner. I have always said that a military victory was not possible and I don't see how

Table Meets Approval

PARIS (AP) — American and North Vietnamese officials inspected and approved today a set of three tables provided by the French for the opening of the Vietnam peace talks, which are expected to be slow and tortuous.

The four delegations—American, South Vietnamese, North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong—National Liberation Front—assemble Saturday around a round table about 15 feet in diameter. Their secretarial staffs gather at two rectangular tables aligned with the center of the round table and 18 inches from its edge.

This arrangement broke a deadlock of two months over the shape of the table and speaking order, but it was so vague and ambiguous as to beloud any participant's claim to victory. The vagueness of the arrangement seemed deliberate.

The French government quickly produced the tables—the big round one and the two small ones, each 5½ feet long by 3 feet wide.

Representatives of the American and North Vietnamese delegations arrived separately at the former Hotel Majestic, now the International Conference Center, to give their approval.

It was in the same conference room that the U.S.-North Vietnamese talks opened May 13 last year.

There is no word yet on just how the delegations will sit around the table.

North Vietnam and its ally, the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front, can point to the fact that their original round table idea has been accepted, and that thus they consider the conference four-sided.

What appears to have taken place in the long weeks of bargaining is a vindication of the slogan of W. Averell Harriman, the departing chief U.S. negotiator, who pictures himself a champion of "open covenants secretly arrived at."

"The arrangement is exactly as we wanted it to be," Harriman said. "We will always consider it a two-sided conference. The other side considers it a four-party conference. We did not give in and we did not expect them to give in."

Performance Here By Dance Sextet

The Contemporary Dance Sextet will give a performance at 8 p.m. Saturday at Smith-Cotton Auditorium. Admission will be $2 for adults and $1 for students.

The group is the second attraction of the 1968-69 season of the Sedalia Council on the Arts, in cooperation with the Missouri State Council on the Arts.

Kennedy's widow, Mrs. Aristotle Onassis, and his brother, the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

This was done by letter agreement that the material would not be made public for five years, and then only to government investigators, to prevent "undignified or sensational" use of them.

Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, who released the review panel's findings said Mrs. Onassis and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., the only surviving Kennedy brother, were consulted before the material was shown to the panel.

Burke Marshall, former assistant attorney general who represents the Kennedys in the matter, said Sen. Kennedy and Mrs. Onassis "both asked me to say that they will have no comment to make on the report or its release."

Troop Withdrawals Debated in Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — U. S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the U.S. military commander in Vietnam, conferred today with President Nguyen Van Thieu on U.S. troop withdrawals and a possible cease-fire in light of the break in the peace talks deadlock.

The meeting took place less than 24 hours after an announcement from Paris that the United States, North Vietnam, South Vietnam and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front will begin four-way talks Saturday.

Earlier, the U.S. Air Force disclosed it is reviewing its contingency plans for a troop withdrawal or a cease-fire.

One source said the meeting was "pretty high level stuff," also attended by Vice President

Nguyen Cao Ky and Foreign Minister Tran Canh Thanh. The informant said the leaders discussed "a whole spectrum of things" for nearly two hours.

Topics included: —Withdrawal of American troops, how many and how soon. —A truce, which could mean a total cease-fire, a partial cease-fire or a "cease-fire in place." The latter means all troops would simply stay where they are, without mounting any new operations or continuing any old ones.

—How to retaliate if the enemy should attack Saigon during the new negotiations. "In other words," said the source, "would this mean an automatic resumption of bombing North Vietnam?"

—The demilitarized zone. Ky, supervisor of South Viet-nam's Paris delegation, is scheduled to return to Europe early next week.

U. Alexis Johnson, undersecretary of state for political affairs in the incoming Nixon administration, canceled a scheduled meeting with Thieu later today. A spokesman for the U.S. Mission said he had a bad case of flu.

Johnson has been conferring with top American and South Vietnamese officials since Wednesday. He is scheduled to leave for Washington Saturday to report his findings to President-elect Nixon, but the spokesman said his departure may be delayed by his illness.

While Abrams is against withdrawing any combat units from Vietnam before mid-July, sources said he has reluctantly accepted the fact that some troop withdrawals will be made relatively soon.

Informants close to Thieu said the initial withdrawal announcement could specify from 20,000 to 50,000 men without a timetable.

On Thursday, Premier Tran Van Huong was quoted by a spokesman as saying he believes the United States could begin a withdrawal of 10,000 men a month without compromising the war effort.

Small skirmishes and overnight shelling of South Vietnamese towns and bases continued, but there was no significant ground fighting.

U.S. headquarters reported the 51st significant incident of enemy activity in the demilitarized zone since the Nov. 1 bombing halt of North Vietnam.

Chain of Suicides to Dramatize Student Protests is Announced

PRAGUE (AP) — University students issued today what they said was a copy of the suicide letter left by a student who set himself on fire to protest the political situation following the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia.

The letter said a group of volunteers has decided to commit suicide one by one to "wake up the people" who are on "the edge of hopelessness."

"I have the honor to draw the first lot," the letter added.

It said the next suicide would be on Tuesday.

It was signed by Jan Palach, 21, who was reported today in critical condition from burns over 85 per cent of his body. He poured gasoline over himself and touched a match to himself Thursday on Wenceslas Square. Self-immolation was the form of protest used by South Vietnamese monks and nuns during the regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

The letter said the suicide group's aims were to bring an end to press censorship and to ban the illegally published newspaper Pravy put out by the occupation forces.

Students said a group of students reportedly are willing to burn themselves in an order determined by drawing lots, and that Palach carried a letter saying the next immolation would take place within 10 days and the immolations would continue until the Russians leave.

Several government leaders —including National Front Chairman Evzen Erban and Czech Premier Stanislav Razl—met hastily with student leaders at a session that lasted into the early morning hours. Students who attended said a list of student demands was prepared for the government.

They told leaders that students are observing a promise to avoid open conflict but that Palach's act was motivated by political protest.

Agnew's Role Is Outlined

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President-elect Nixon assigned his vice president, Spiro T. Agnew, today to serve as his liaison with state and local government officials in a move to make the federal machinery "sensitive, receptive and responsive to their views."

Nixon said a practical and functional role for state and municipal officials in shaping federal policies is "absolutely essential to my administration."

The President-elect earlier pledged himself to purposeful and energetic pursuit of the Vietnam peace negotiations, without signaling any policy alteration in that quest.

His statement on Saturday's coming resumption of the Paris peace talks was brief and little more than a formality.

The break in the procedural deadlock which had stalled the talks was a preinauguration bonus for the incoming administration.

Nixon, working and relaxing at Key Biscayne, at first indicated through a spokesman that he would have nothing to say on the matter. Later he issued this statement:

"I am pleased that new talks can begin in Paris. My administration will pursue these talks with energy and purpose."

The president-elect will wind up his four-day Florida respite and fly to New York tonight, his inaugural address presumably all but ready for Monday's ceremony.

He has made no public appearances and has been reported at work daily on the speech he will deliver from the steps of the Capitol as the nation's 37th president.

Nixon announced Thursday his selection of George A. Lincoln, a retired brigadier general and professor at the U.S. Military Academy, to become director of the Office of Emergency Planning.

He has since served periodically as an adviser to the Pentagon and the White House on military assistance, defense equipment and manpower and related topics.

Cold, Wet Landing For Russia's Space Heroes

MOSCOW (AP) — Three Soviet cosmonauts in the space-ship Soyuz 4 landed in the snow and howling winds about 1,500 miles southeast of Moscow today. The temperature at the landing site was 31 degrees below zero.

Soyuz 5 with cosmonaut Boris Volynov remained in orbit.

Tass news agency said the crew, two of whom had transferred to Soyuz 4 from Soyuz 5 after an orbital linkup Thursday, landed about 25 miles northwest of Karaganda in Kazakhstan.

It reported that villagers rushed through the snow with overcoats to protect the spacemen from the biting cold.

"How are you feeling, dear boys?" one asked them.

"No words can express it. . . . Very glad. Extremely happy," a cosmonaut replied.

The cosmonauts climbed aboard a helicopter and were flown into the steel-making city of Karaganda where they will be put up in the Chaika—Seagull—Hotel temporarily, Tass reported.

Tass said a recovery helicopter had first spotted the descending spaceship and a crewman shouted over the radio to ground control: "I can see them."

The first ship to land was commanded by Vladimir Shatalov, who was launched into orbit Tuesday. Two days later he was joined in his cabin by Alexei Yeliseyev and Yevgeny Khru-nov, who climbed aboard from Soyuz 5—achieving the world's first crew transfer in orbit.

Radio Moscow said Volynov reported from space after the landing of his comrades that he "feels excellent." There was no immediate report on his plans for a return to earth.

Soyuz 4 docked in orbit Thursday with Soyuz 5, and then separated after transfer of the two crewmen. The feat was reported here as a step toward creation of long-term space laboratories.

The radio broadcast said Soyuz 4 landed in the "predetermined region" at 1:53 a.m.

EST, after a "smooth" parachute descent through the earth's atmosphere.

The three cosmonauts, in preparation for their landing, had strapped themselves into their seats. Then commander Shatalov made manual adjustments in the craft's position and fired a re-entry blast from the ship's rocket.

"The ship then made a controlled descent through the atmosphere," the announcer said.

Decision on Juror May Set Precedent

Bulletin

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The judge in the Sirhan Bishara Sirhan murder trial today upheld a prosecution challenge of a prospective juror who said she could not vote for the death penalty under any circumstances.

Alvina Alvidrez had been tentatively seated as Sirhan's eighth juror.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Continued legal arguments over a prospective juror opposed to the death penalty raises the possibility that the Sirhan Bishara Sirhan trial may become a landmark case in U.S. law.

Since Sirhan is charged with slaying Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, the trial commands worldwide attention. But the calling of Alvina Alvidrez as a prospective juror set the stage for a legal decision that could become a keystone ruling in future U.S. murder trials.

The battle was joined Thursday—the seventh day of Sirhan's trial—when Deputy Dist. Atty. David N. Fitts renewed his challenge to her seating. Mrs. Alvidrez told the court Wednesday that "under no circumstances whatsoever" could she vote for a death penalty.

But, the bespectacled woman in her 30s added, she felt qualified to judge the question of the 24-year-old Jordanian's guilt or innocence.

Judge Herbert V. Walker indicated he would rule today on her seating.

Challenge Garrison's Assertion

Bulletin

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The district attorney's office, in a dramatic last-minute move, today asked for a continuance in the trial of Clay L. Shaw, accused of conspiring to assassinate President John F. Kennedy.

A spokesman for Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison said there could be no trial if the federal government blocks attempts to get evidence.

WASHINGTON (AP) — New Orleans Dist. Atty. James Garrison's assistants were ordered by a Washington judge today to back up their claim that former President John F. Kennedy was fired upon from at least two directions before the judge would order release of autopsy photographs and X-rays.

Judge Charles Halleck of the Court of General Sessions issued the order in firm terms as Garrison's aides attempted to get release of the autopsy documents from the National Archives for the New Orleans trial next week of Dr. Clay Shaw on charges of conspiring to murder Kennedy.

"You have alleged you have substantial evidence bullets were fired from two directions," Halleck told Nuna V. Bertel Jr., of Garrison's staff.

"This court must have some indication this evidence exists. How much time do you need?"

Bertel objected that Halleck was asking Garrison to move the trial from New Orleans to Washington. He asked permission to present affidavits to Halleck, rather than witnesses, but there was no immediate ruling on the request as the court recessed until the afternoon.

It is Garrison's thesis that Kennedy was assassinated in a conspiracy by several men and not by Lee Harvey Oswald alone, as found by the government commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren. Garrison maintains at least one of the bullets which struck Kennedy came from the front; the Warren Commission said he was shot from the rear only.

Thursday, a panel of medical experts which met in secret last year said the autopsy findings were correct as detailed in the Warren report and prove he was shot twice from behind.

The panel report, dealing with autopsy photographs and X-rays, was made public by the Justice Department.

The photographs and x-rays were placed in the care of the National Archives in 1966 by Kennedy's widow, Mrs. Aristotle Onassis, and his brother, the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

This was done by letter agreement that the material would not be made public for five years, and then only to government investigators, to prevent "undignified or sensational" use of them.

Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, who released the review panel's findings said Mrs. Onassis and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., the only surviving Kennedy brother, were consulted before the material was shown to the panel.

Burke Marshall, former assistant attorney general who represents the Kennedys in the matter, said Sen. Kennedy and Mrs. Onassis "both asked me to say that they will have no comment to make on the report or its release."

Construction To Start Soon On Auditorium

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Construction will start immediately on a new $9.8 million multipurpose auditorium for the University of Missouri here, it was announced late Thursday after the award of contracts.

The rectangular shaped building, basically two structures under one roof, will have a total seating capacity of 18,000.

Special meeting rooms can be partitioned off to accommodate groups of from 30 to 500.

Alfred Lindgren Inc., Kansas City, was awarded the general contract on a bid of $7,145,100. Plumbing, heating, ventilating and air conditioning work went to J. Louis Crum Corp., Columbia, on a low bid of $2,021,050 and Eckelkamp Electric Co., of Washington, Mo., got the electrical work on bid of $696,091.

The Board of Curators, at a special meeting in Kansas City, accepted the low interest rate bid of 5.39449 per cent on $3.1 million in revenue bonds submitted by John Nuveen Co. Inc., Chicago.

The state Legislature appropriated $7,650,000 toward the project.

The bonds will be paid off with a part of student fee increases.

Old Values Tumble Down

Seek Answer to Drop In Church Attendance

By PETER F. DANIELS
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Recent manned-space adventures have caused even theologians to wonder where exactly heaven is, and consequently it comes as no surprise to church pastors that regular attendance at church worship services is falling off.

Last year, according to the Gallup Poll, only 48 percent of the adult population in the United States regularly attended church. The poll says the sharpest decline was noted among young adults — those people in their 20's who are often named as the focal point for concepts which seriously disturb traditional beliefs.

Obvious to All

Local pastors are painfully aware that people, at least in a general sense, are showing less and less interest in regular church attendance.

They differ in their explanations for the phenomenon, but agree that the trend is serious and will undoubtedly become worse before it is reversed.

The Rev. Charles B. Cheffey, pastor of the First Methodist Church, said, "We have to look at this idea of worship and make it interesting as well as helpful" to congregations.

Mr. Cheffey said that people have become accustomed to dramatic, professional performances and statements via television. "They see fine religious drama, and have decided that what they see in their own church is rather dull," he said.

Notes a Decline

The Rev. Harry Purviance, pastor of the First Christian Church, said, "I hate to admit it, but I'm afraid attendance at church services has dropped from 47 percent 10 years ago to 43 percent today. I think most ministers have noticed it. There are two possible explanations. The first is that people no longer think the church is relevant — the 'God is dead' theory. The second reason may be that a person's interest is leaning more and more to the materialistic. Television competition is tremendous and we have to ask ourselves whether the church is really saying something that is beneficial and influential to the people."

Although the Rev. Garner S. Odell, pastor of Broadway Presbyterian Church, said no official count on attendance was kept by his church, it was obvious that there was little growth, either.

"There is a little too much prosperity. I don't think it's television so much that keeps people away on Sundays. They visit friends, family, go to the lake, hunting, or fishing."

Not Net Loss

"It's quite remarkable," Dr. Odell said, "how many young couples are attending. I don't think we're losing members. I believe it's more a matter of people who used to come to church four times a month, now coming only three."

"I wish somebody had an idea that would bring people more often," he said. "The tide of the times, our prosperity, all tend to complicate the matter."

The Rev. Fr. Lawrence J. Gowney, pastor of Sacred Heart Catholic Church, said he had not noticed a decline in attendance. "With five masses on Sundays it's difficult to tell, but we haven't made any attempt to actually count attendance," he said.

When asked if Sacred Heart had undertaken projects as other churches have to stimulate more direct participation by parishioners, he said: "We are presently studying a parish council plan which would give everyone a voice in parish affairs. I can't say that our young people attending church are losing interest. Of those who graduate from our school, 70 percent go to college away from home, so we can't tell."

Effects the Young

The Rev. Marvin G. Albright, pastor of Immanuel United Church of Christ, said, "Our attendance average remained the same last year. Generally, I would have to agree that younger people come less. My own analysis is that people who are 40 or over have more loyalty to the church. But young people show signs generally of being disgruntled."

"Revolutionary concepts in industry, leisure, entertainment and other fields cause people to question and even reject the old values. It may get worse before the situation improves," he said.

"I'm not disappointed in attendance at worship services," Mr. Albright added, saying that he felt the church "as a whole will benefit from the questions being raised now by our young people."

There seem to be three basic factors, as expressed by local pastors, which might explain drops in church attendance not only here, but nationally. They are: the over-all impact of television; rejection of old values caused by the advent of new and unfamiliar concepts of life; and the rebellion of young minds against traditional stands maintained by churches.

There apparently is no single solution, but most ministers agree that churches must join the modern community of man and at the same time present their congregations with something of value in life as it is lived now.

As one pastor said, the situation may get worse before it improves — at least until the upsetting new values take the place of the old.

90-Year-Old Priest Sees Disobedience Increasing

By BOB COOPER
Associated Press Writer

VERSAILLES, Ky. (AP)—"Disobedience and the like starts in the home and it goes out into church life and civic life," says a 90-year-old retired Catholic priest.

"Today, you have more obedient parents than you have obedient children," the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Herbert F. Hillenmeyer said in an interview.

Msgr. Hillenmeyer, a priest for 66 years, has retired from a Fort Thomas, Ky., pastorate to become chaplain of a nursing home here, but his interest in the world's problems still is keen.

In rapid succession, he expounded his views on such controversial topics as the Pope's encyclical on birth control, civic disobedience and delinquency.

"The Holy Father's pronouncement was nothing new," Msgr. Hillenmeyer said, "just a reaffirmation of the general attitude of the church."

Priests' rebellion against the edict, like other problems facing the modern world, stem from a lack of obedience and a decreasing amount of charity in the world, Msgr. Hillenmeyer believes.

"There is still charity in the world. I don't say it is devoid of charity, but it's growing less and less and less," he said.

Msgr. Hillenmeyer said it is easier to understand "the laity, at least some of them," rejecting the Pope's stand against birth control, but he thinks it shocking that priests would rebel.

"Years ago, a priest rebelling against the authority of the bishop, why that was an unheard of thing..."

"I look at it this way: whatever I have as a priest to administer the sacraments, I have from the church. The Church doesn't owe me anything, but I owe the Church a whole lot."

The spirit of disobedience and rebellion on college campuses and in the streets also confounds Msgr. Hillenmeyer.

"I don't say in regard to young people that there aren't some points they're fighting for, but their attitude of rebellion... is just beyond me," he said.

Then there is the increase in recent years of priests leaving the church, many of them because Catholic doctrine forbids the clergy to marry.

"You have to remember that the Lord chose 12 apostles—he handpicked them...and even our blessed Lord had one traitor among his 12."

Chess Parlor Offers Education For Novice

NEW YORK (AP)—Back in Lincoln, Nebr., where I come from, there used to be an old cigar store, not far from the center of town, that featured chess and sandwiches.

The sandwiches were all right and you could get a pretty good lunch for two bits but the chess was extraordinary. Nothing cloistered about it.

To play in that company, the special skills required were temporary deafness, to shut out the exhortations of kibitzers, and ability to figure out chess combinations under the pressure of outspoken heckling. If you were a weak character you might even find the kibitzers moving the pieces for you.

When the proprietor decided to make the best of a raucous situation by charging a dime a game, the customers thinned out a little. But I never did get up the nerve to play a game there.

It was only natural nevertheless that when I came to New York I should gravitate to the chess parlor on the third floor of a dingy old building near the center of town at 42nd and Broadway. I still go there.

There, after pushing through crowds of tourists and mincing homos and gawkers and ladies on the prowl, you find a large bare room lighted by unshaded bulbs and strewn with chess tables and players and empty coffee cups, and kibitzers.

You can buy sandwiches at the parlor too and while away an evening watching characters thrust and parry across the checkered boards, at 40 cents an hour apiece, while taking an occasional glance at other characters straggling into the girls movies across the street.

Some of the players look as if they might feel more at home in the Bowery. Others are aggressive types from the Seventh Avenue garment district around the corner. Or college students who have brought time clocks to simulate tournament conditions. There are also business men relaxing, unidentified strays, and me.

Pastor's Comment

By The Rev. Charles B. Cheffey
First United Methodist Church

As 1969 gets going, many news items foreshadow vast developments in human activity. The increased number of heart transplants, the significant accomplishments of the three American astronauts at Christmastime, and the growing use of computers are examples. And in many feature articles in publications ranging from daily newspapers to such religious periodicals such as "Christianity Today" and "The Christian Century," writers describe the revolution in attitude and conduct among youth and young adults regarding sex.

What does all this say to the community of faith, the church? It should say to all of us that we cannot conduct "business as usual" in our programs of study, worship and mission. To continue to speak of Moses, Augustine, Calvin, Wesley, Luther and Knox but ignore the writings of Kinsey and Hefner and Tillich and Bonhoeffer; to study the events in the Bible and the long history of the church, yet ignore the significant accomplishments in the fields of medicine, aerospace, biology and a dozen other areas, is to place the church in a position where it will be totally ignored by the coming generations.

To pretend that nothing has changed, that the old answers are adequate for the new questions; to insist that an absolutist ethical code can meet the needs of men in the midst of vast unprecedented changes is to bring religious teaching into the very same position it was in when Jesus came upon the scene in Judea. The church must never be adamant in the face of the new demands of current history and thinking.

And of course, this calls for a revolution in the methods of communicating the faith as well as a continual updating of the teaching or content of that faith. The community of faith must welcome men of many fields of endeavor, such as the communication field, in order that the church's ministries may be effective in reaching people. When any person over thirty thinks about the changes in everything since his or her high school days and has any kind of dialogue with the younger set, he is in a position to begin to evaluate the effort and insight and hard work which must go into a program of study and outreach in the name of the church.

Messages

grateful to him for the support he has always given us. On behalf of the members of the Patrol I want to extend to you our sincere sympathy.

—O—
VOLNEY C. ASHFORD (Director of Athletics, Missouri Valley College, Marshall) — I am sorry to hear of Kelly passing away. I have known him ever since I was athletic coach at the college beginning in 1937. I have always admired him for his interest in athletics and the contribution he made in that area. I have had to give up coaching here as I had a heart attack a year ago, so I understand what Kelly's problem was. I know his loss is hard to take and hard to understand. Kelly lived a good life and enjoyed life. I know you, Mrs. Scruton, will keep that chin up and carry on.

—O—
MARTHA AND DICK SKLAR (Kansas City. Former Sedalians) — How very sorry we are about Kelly. Dick's first remark was: "Well, he died happy — he was doing what he always enjoyed so much." Everyone must feel the same about him because he seemed never happier than when he had people around him. He always will be part of the fondest memories we have of our years as Sedalians.

—O—
JOHN L. SHOWEL (Publisher, Wheaton, Ill. Daily Journal) — On behalf of the staff of the Daily Journal and for myself I offer deepest sympathy upon the death of your husband. Although it was my loss that I did not know him intimately, I have heard so much about him and his service to the newspapers that I am certain he will be sorely missed. We shall pray earnestly that you and yours may be comforted.

—O—
MR. AND MRS. JACK ROGERS (1408 South Montauk) — In the passing of Kelly, he is like so many others; we only realize his greatness after it is too late. He was ever a friend to all. May you and your family have peace of mind that while we had him here with us we know that he carved a wonderful niche of many accomplishments and that he always went just one more mile in doing these things.

Doctors for Coroners

Here and there across Missouri we hear a series of lamentations about the state's antiquated county coroner system which one writer for comparison says is essentially the same as the one created in England five centuries ago. Speculation has it that the 75th General Assembly now in session in Jefferson City proposes to replace the rickety system with a state medical examiner program. Under the existing plan, the coroner could be a shoemaker, plumber, public accountant or what have you since no medical training is required.

Senator William Cason of neighboring Clinton, and Rep. Ronald Reed, Jr., St. Joseph, have in mind to do something about this matter which will probably include abolishing the coroner's jury plan, also, the function of which is as outmoded as the secrecy provisions in the juvenile code. Statistics reveal that Missouri is but one of 14 states that operate under the old coroner system, that fewer than 10 per cent of Missouri's present coroners are physicians. Why haven't 90 per cent of Missouri counties done something about this matter themselves without having to wait for the Legislature to correct a nonsensical law permitting non-medical persons to function as diagnosticians of the manner in which a deceased person became that way?

What about Pettis county as an example? The voters here seem to have more intelligence concerning a loose law that permits about any popular person without medical knowledge to become a coroner.

A casual check of limited records revealed that as far back as 1874 Dr. W.H. Evans was Pettis county coroner. From 1897 to 1903 Dr. W.G. Cowan held the job. Then Dr. T.P. McCluney, a Democrat took over until 1904. Many old timers will remember him and Dr. Guy Titsworth, a Republican, who served in 1907-08. He was succeeded by Dr. Frank R. Morley.

Dr. D.P. Dyer, a Democrat, was coroner during 1915-16 followed by Dr. W.M. Wheeler, a Democrat, 1917-18; then Dr. M. T. Collins, a Democrat 1919-20.

Next came four Republicans: 1921-24, Dr. E. F. Staats; 1925-28, Dr. W. G. Jones; and 1929-32 Dr. William T. Bishop.

From 1933 through 1936 the Democrats took over by election of Dr. E.C. Snavely. Longest tenure is that of Dr. C. Gordon Stauffacher, Democrat, who has been Pettis county coroner through the years 1937-69.

If the other Missouri counties want the law changed to establish a professional system of coroners, it's alright with Pettis county which from the above record exercised its own initiative to do so long before the turn of the century.

We'll be happy to see the rest of the Missouri counties catch up with pace-setting Pettis citizens who are puzzled why the rest of the counties dragged their feet all these years waiting on the General Assembly to "pass a law" to correct a long-whiskered absurdity.

Hickel Embarrassed by Ferryboat

By DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON — Senators who have been probing the oil affiliations and anti-conservation background of Secretary of the Interior-designate Walter J. Hickel have concluded he definitely deserves the nickname "Help Yourself Hickel," as the result of the purchase of a Swedish ship for use in Alaskan coastal trade.

There is some speculation that Gov. Hickel deliberately fronted for the oil companies in trying to break down the Jones act which forbids foreign-built vessels from plying in U.S. coastal trade. In any event, he did not look before he leaped. For he is now stuck with a Norwegian-built, Swedish-purchased boat flying the Panamanian flag, which cannot carry either passengers or cargo between Alaskan cities, for which trade it was specifically purchased.

Further more, if Hickel should accomplish the miracle and get the Jones act repealed, he would still have to shell out approximately $7 million — which is what he paid for the Swedish ship in the first place — in order to rebuild it to meet Coast Guard safety regulations.

Here is the inside story of how Wally Hickel, Governor of Alaska, failed to look before he leaped into the Swedish ship mess.

—Scenic Alaska—

In 1966 the people of Alaska voted a bond issue to acquire additional ferries in order to bring summer tourists from Seattle and British Columbia up the beautiful Alaskan inland waterway. Tourism has become big business in Alaska, and it was well advertised to the voters that the state would build a new ferry to ply along the scenic coast.

Wally Hickel was elected governor in late 1966, and shortly after taking office in January, 1967, he switched the plan which had been sold to the voters, a design for a new American-built ferry had been prepared by a Naval architectural firm in Seattle and had been sent to several shipyards in the United States, and the lowest bidder was reported to have been Livingston Shipbuilding Company of Orange, Texas, for the price of approximately $8 million.

Meanwhile Gov. Hickel had been negotiating with New York brokers for the purchase of a foreign-built ferry and finally did purchase the Swedish Stenna Britannica, for approximately $7 million. It was reported that the ship had been on the market for approximately $4,500,000.

Gov. Hickel was immediately reminded that the Jones act would prohibit a foreign-built vessel from plying between American ports. His reply was to ask the late Sen. Bob Bartlett and Sen. Ernest Gruening of Alaska to introduce an amendment changing the Jones act.

The Coast Guard then wrote Hickel warning that it would object to any vessel plying in coastal waters which did not meet the safety laws of the United States. So Hickel was stuck with his Panamanian flag, Swedish-purchased, Norwegian-built vessel.

—Very Embarrassing—

The vessel, now renamed the James Wickersham, in honor of an early delegate from Alaska, is now in use. But you can't get on at any Alaskan port to go to another Alaskan port. It's all very embarrassing.

"Leap Before You Look" Hickel was further embarrassed by the fact that the ship broke down in mid-Atlantic, then had further troubles in the Pacific and had to put into San Diego for repairs.

A further embarrassment is the fact that in order to use the Wickersham as an efficient ferry, it will be necessary either to cut large holes in the ship's hull for side loading of automobiles or else rebuild the existing ferry terminals in Alaska. The ship's present design permits only bow and stern loading.

Meanwhile, Hickel is determined to remake the law in order to accommodate his ferryboat. Last month, Dec. 5, 1968, his office issued a news release stating: "Gov. Walter J. Hickel fired off telegrams today to Alaska's congressional delegation disclosing a two-pronged attack — both through the courts and through renewed efforts to revamp the Jones act — aimed at heading off what the governor called "a new threat to the U.S. domestic petroleum industry."

"In the wire Hickel said, 'The need to alter federal maritime regulations — particularly the Jones act — has become even more urgent as a result of a new attempt by some oil companies and refineries to increase imports of foreign oil into the United States.'"

The governor continued at some length not only to oppose the free trade zone in Maine for the importation of oil to fuel-starved New England, but also to attempt to modify the Jones act for the benefit of American oil companies' tankers.

This is the man whom the Senate is asked to confirm as Secretary of the Interior.

H.E.W. Reformation

That the nation's welfare program should be completely overhauled is the recommendation of Wilbur Cohen as he turns over the job to the Secretary Designate Robert H. Finch. This does not mean that Secretary Cohen has not done a good job, but he realizes the enormously complex operation of the Health, Education and Welfare Department. It is really three agencies in one.

Secretary Cohen is appalled at the infant mortality rate in this country. He says it is disgraceful that in the most affluent and technologically advanced nation in the world, out of every 1000 babies born, 23.7 die. We must, he says, put children on the top priority list, beginning with the unborn child and continuing with his health, education and economic opportunities through better family planning programs, schools, and industrial training.

There can be no disagreement with Secretary Cohen's recommendations. They will not be easy for his success or to follow, but knowing that the public is dissatisfied with the nation's welfare program, Mr. Finch, no doubt will begin the task of reform immediately.

His Idea

Benjamin Franklin is said to have proposed the idea of daylight saving time while he was in Paris. However, it was not until 1907 that the idea was revived by William Willett in England.

The Inaugural Medal

It has just been announced by the 1969 Inaugural Committee that Presidential Art Medals, Inc., has been appointed as the official distributors of the Richard M. Nixon inaugural medal.

Nixon personally selected Ralph J. Menconi to prepare the models for this medal. Menconi gained worldwide recognition for his John F. Kennedy and Robert Kennedy memorial medals and the extreme high-relief portrait for the Sir Winston Churchill memorial medal.

It was also Nixon's suggestion that the crewlwork pattern of the Great Seal, embroidered by his daughter Julie, be used as the motif for the reverse. It has been so faithfully reproduced that, the signature — "To RN-JN" — is plainly discernible just below the eagle. This personal, family touch in design sets a precedent in the 68-year history of inaugural medals.

Two different medals will go on sale throughout the United States this week. The 2 1/4-inch bronze will cost $6, including an easel to display the medal. The 2 1/2-inch solid silver copy will be issued in limited editions and serially numbered from 1 to 15,000. These are available at $45 each, including the easel.

Interested readers may like to write Presidential Art Medals, Inc., 10 W. National Road, Englewood, Ohio 43222.

I called James Harper, vice-president of Presidential Art Medals, regarding the availability of these pieces and he assured me that delivery would be immediate.

Today's hand was played by Oswald Jacoby in the semifinals of the 1965 Vanderbilt. It helped our team win that match and then go on to win the tournament. The hand presents the same sort of problem that declarer had in yesterday's made up hand and proves that at bridge, truth is just as strange as fiction.

Ira Rubin's jump to five diamonds was a trifle optimistic but if Jacoby had held some value other than the club king the game would probably have been lay down.

West opened the ace of clubs and shifted to his singleton trump. Jacoby won in dummy and led the four of spades. East played the eight and, after considerable study, Jacoby played the nine.

(Note from James Jacoby: "The study was three seconds. Dad may be getting old but he is still the fastest player in the world.")

The rest of the play was routine. West was in with the queen. He couldn't lead a second trump and played his queen of clubs. Jacoby ruffed, thought for a second and played a king of spades. West ducked quickly but it did no good. Jacoby discarded from dummy, ruffed a small spade to drop West's ace and made his doubled contract.

The play was brilliant but like many such plays, it was made possible by a defensive mistake. Had East played either the jack or 10 of spades on the first spade lead Jacoby would have no chance to make his contract.

There was a lot of post-mortem speculation about what would have happened if East had started with jack-10-eight-small in spades and played the eight the first time and the 10 the second. Jacoby had an answer: "If he were that good, he would have set me on a hand that could have been made. Mistakes occur far more often than such brilliancies."

QUICK QUIZ

Q—What is the full name of U Thant, secretary-general of the United Nations?

A—U Thant has only one name, as do most Burmese. U, a title of respect, has a meaning similar to "mister."

Q—What is the most common fuel used in jet aircraft engines?

A—Kerosene. Both turbo-prop and conventional ramjet engines use it as fuel.

BETTY CANARY

The Pyramid Club's Rival

"You've won a free camera!" the post card said. But it was a different story after I dialed the telephone number given on the card. I got the free camera IF I bought a new vacuum cleaner.

I asked if this same company had sent the card I had received two weeks prior to the camera offer. That card said, "Final Notice. Call the number below before 5 p.m. within the next three days." I called but nobody answered. The girl said the cleaner company hadn't sent it and so far I've had nothing repossessed, so I am assuming somebody wanted to sell me aluminum siding, new asphalt topping for my driveway or some other hard-to-live-with-out item.

This year I have received three free vacation invitations to Florida and I wonder how my name got on their list. I vaguely remember signing coupons at the state fair last summer and possibly this is their source. Of course, I'm not going to spend my money on free vacations in Florida and I'm not going to invest in real estate there via photographs.

Actually, what I'm saving my money for is the cosmetic business. And I'm waiting to be contacted by them. This get-rich-quick scheme fanning out across the country has to be the biggest money-maker since the Pyramid Clubs.

What happens is that for $2,500 you get the opportunity to sell cosmetics. After the company has you signed up, then every other dupe (oops!, the word they use is "client") you bring into the fold, nets you $500. Obviously, by ringing in five of your friends, you get back your initial investment and you still (lucky you) get to sell the cosmetics. The cosmetics they bought at "wholesale" prices, that is.

Before all this happens, you get an invitation to a "party."

At the party you'll be shown a film, the star being the head of the cosmetics firm. He was just a pore ole country boy, see, and a door-to-door salesman. Well, the film tells you, after he made his million dollars, he decided he would devote the rest of his life to making all us folks rich, too. He isn't pore any more, he says. He spends his time just drivin' around in his Lincoln Continental and flyin' around the country in the company plane, helpin' us out ... at $2,500 a helpin'.

Testimonials are given by "wealthy" members of the audience (the whole party resembles a revival meeting) all of whom, just a few weeks ago, were pore ole country boys. Example: A man, "formerly a postman in Kentucky" who has made more than $50,000 in the past six months.

I'm panting to get in line and sign up. I mean, I'm just a pore lil ole girl from the country and ...

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Wheat Germ Oil Rich in Vitamin E

Q — What beneficial ingredient is in wheat germ oil? What does it do?

A — This is a rich source of alpha tocopherol or vitamin E which is essential to prevent destruction of red blood cells. Recent studies have shown that persons with arthritis need less cortisone to control their disease if they take vitamin E; that this vitamin will prevent anemia in premature infants; that it is an effective remedy for digitalis poisoning; that it can ease the pains in the legs that occur on walking a short distance (intermittent claudication) due to hardening of the arteries; and that it benefits women with chronic cystic mastitis.

Q — Do choline and inositol have any beneficial effect on one's cholesterol level?

A — These are two of the lesser-known vitamins. When inositol deficiency is induced in animals the cholesterol level rises. A deficiency of choline, on the other hand, lowers the cholesterol level. These facts have not as yet resulted in any therapeutic use of these substances in human beings, probably because more reliable means of achieving the desired purpose are available.

Q — A lumbar sympathectomy was performed on a friend who had hardening of the arteries. What is this operation and how does it help?

A — In this operation the surgeon cuts the roots of the sympathetic nerves at the point of emergence from the vertebral column just below the ribs. It is usually on both sides and tends to lower the blood pressure. Since high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries often go hand in hand, anything that helps one relieve the other. With the advent of effective drugs to control the blood pressure, this operation is not performed as often as it used to be.

Q — I am taking Tenuate. What is it given for? What are the side effects?

A — This is an appetite suppressant given to help you lose weight. Although side effects are rare, it is advisable after a short course of this drug to rely on a low calorie diet to keep your weight down.

Q — What causes low blood pressure?

A — Low blood pressure, unless it reaches shock level (an upper reading of 95) is an asset and is caused by healthful living coupled with a failure to worry yourself sick.

Boyhood Friend Found His Life, Death at Sea

By JOE WING
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The sea winds blow strongly through the cornfields of Nebraska and that, they say, is why the U.S. Navy gets much of its manpower from the midwestern states.

When I was a boy and had never been closer than a thousand miles to the ocean, I read every sea story I could lay hands on and dreamed about entering Annapolis. That dream grounded on the rocks of poor eyesight and incompetence in mathematics.

One whose secret dream did not founder was Carl Bender, a high school friend of mine.

Carl was a tall, grave youth from the other side of town. His mother was poor and his family had no tradition of higher education but Carl became an outstanding student without apparent effort.

Geometry didn't bother him, and he would get up in Miss Jury's Latin class and read at sight passages I had been puzzling over for hours. He seemed like a natural for college.

Well, graduation came at last, as it did in those days for most high school students, and I began to figure out how, by working nights, I could attend the University of Nebraska where tuition was nearly free. Carl also talked vaguely about going to college. Instead, he dropped me a note from Omaha one day, saying he had enlisted in the Navy.

From time to time after that I got letters from Carl. He was serving on the East Coast, on the West Coast, in the Caribbean. He was advancing in grade from able-bodied seaman through the petty officer ranks. He thought he might yet get an opportunity to attend Annapolis.

But there is a limit to a high school friendship nourished by renewed contact, and the exchange of letters finally ceased. Nevertheless the image of Carl Bender kept popping up every so often.

About a month ago something sparked me into action. I wrote an inquiry about Carl to the Bureau of Naval Personnel in Washington.

The matter had nearly slipped my mind this week when the answer came back. The big official envelope contained only my letter of inquiry, but someone had scrawled across the bottom:

"Missing and presumed dead. July 12, 1945."

Regional Planning Explained to BPWC

Frank Schwarzer, executive director of the Show-Me Regional Planning Commission, was the speaker at the dinner meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club held Jan. 9 at Bothwell Hotel.

The future belongs to those who plan, the speaker said. The whole world is a planning program, from the world itself down through the countries, states, regions and cities.

The Show-Me Region, he went on to say, consists of Lafayette, Johnson and Pettis Counties, because their problems and needs are similar.

The commission for this region, Schwarzer said, has been in existence only since 1968 and was the sixth region to be organized in the state.

Sedalia itself was one of the first cities in the United States to go into a planning program for its future growth and needs; this started approximately 10 years ago.

Schwarzer stated that the projected census for Sedalia in 1990 is 41,000 and for Pettis County, 59,000. For this reason plans must be made in all areas to take care of this growth pattern.

The Show-Me Regional Planning Commission operates under the laws of Missouri and its purpose is to provide the means whereby local units of government can get together and plan for future developments in their particular area.

There are three counties and 27 communities comprising the Show-Me Region and each county and community has one vote. Mayor Ralph Walker represents Sedalia and Judge Henry Lamm represents Pettis County on the commission, he said. At the present time there are two studies under way. This is a comprehensive water and sewer plan for the areas involving cities outside of Sedalia and Warrensburg and a regional development plan which involves all towns. The commission hopes to accomplish zoning in the counties in the next few years. Four communities in the area already have planning commissions—Sedalia, Warrensburg, Higginsville and Concordia. The commission is trying to get all other communities to form planning committees.

Schwarzer stated that disaster planning was also an important item on their agenda. However, the commission does not have any connection with the current school redistricting. A further interesting point was that Missouri is the only state that has legislated statutes to cover regional planning.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Helen Ream, chairman of the Civic Participation Committee.

Mrs. Nyra Price, president, presided over the meeting, and introduced William H. Hall, director of Industrial Development, who spoke on the junior high school proposition. Hall told the reasons that make it imperative that Sedalia build a junior high school; the present teacher-pupil ratio at Smith-Cotton, the Title IV program of the Civil Rights Act, and the requirement that school systems with ratings such as Sedalia's must provide public kindergartens in the future. The Business and Professional Women's Club voted to endorse this proposition.

Special music was presented by Patty Worley, accompanied by Connie Cordes. Miss Worley sang: "My Heart is a Silent Violin," "When I Have Sung My Song" and "Who Can I Turn To?" The music was introduced by Mrs. Mary Louise Waldrep, music chairman.

Mrs. Betty Blackwell, membership chairman, was presented a gold card from the National Federation for obtaining five new members of the Sedalia Club this year. Mrs. Blackwell introduced the new members to the club: Mrs. Ann Hamilton, Mrs. Dorothy Willis and Mrs. Aileen Yuille.

Guests introduced by Mrs. Dorothy Boyd were: Helen Gallagher, guest of Judy Nix and Diane Draizey, guest of Betty Blackwell.

The table decorations were large snowmen made by Donna Harrison. Other decorations included yellow streamers and yellow candles.

Nancy Catron of State Fair Community College announced the new semester secretarial science courses, to be started in January.

The earth actually passed through the tail of Halley's comet in 1910, but no noticeable effect was produced.

Pensions Are Under Specific Tax Regulations

Editor's note: It is time to think about the income tax again. This is Chapter Nine of a series reviewing the regulations, with emphasis on taking advantage of all exclusions and deductions legally due you.

By RAY DE CRANE
NEA Publications

Pension and annuity income may be fully taxable, partially taxable or tax-exempt in any given year, depending upon the source of the income.

There are three general types of pensions and annuities and different tax rules apply to each. They fall in these categories:

1. You contributed nothing and your employer entirely financed the pension program. Your benefits are fully taxable.

2. You and your employer each made contributions to the program and you will recover your entire contribution within the first three years of going on pension. Nothing is taxable until you have recovered tax-free your total contributions. Thereafter, all benefits received are taxable.

3. An annuity contract which you have purchased either with a lump sum payment or with periodic payments which guarantees you a fixed monthly benefit either for a fixed number of years or for life. A portion of the payment represents a partial return of your own capital and the remainder represents earnings on your investment.

It therefore becomes necessary to determine how much of the payment is taxable, what portion is excludable.

This illustration will illustrate application of the rule:

Assume a man has paid a total of $15,000 into an annuity contract during his working years. Now 65, he is to start collecting the $100 monthly pension for life.

He knows his cost, $15,000; now he has to determine his expected return.

Actuarial tables, available either through the insurance company or Internal Revenue Service, show the life expectancy of a man, 65, to be 15 years.

Therefore, his expected return is 15 X $1,200 yearly for a total of $18,000. To arrive at his excludable portion he divides his cost by his expected return and receives a factor of 83 1/2 per cent. This means that 83 1/2 per cent of the $1,200 received yearly, or $1,000 is excludable; only the remaining $200 is taxable.

Once the percentage is established it remains constant every year.

Pension and annuity income must be detailed on Schedule B of Form 1040. The schedule is completely revamped this year. A filled-in Schedule B illustrating pension and annuity income, rental income and the retirement income credit is contained in the "Cut Your Own Taxes" book available to readers of this paper.

Supply of Uranium Exceeds the Need

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government said Wednesday its cupboard is overflowing with uranium and it would like the uranium industry to ease up on deliveries for awhile.

The Atomic Energy Commission said it is seeking proposals to limit total deliveries of uranium concentrates from companies now under contract.

Declaring such a reduction would save the government money, the AEC said.

"The commission believes that a moderate reduction in deliveries can be achieved on terms which would be mutually advantageous to the contractors and the government."

The AEC said its commitment to purchase uranium under the contracts—which terminate Dec. 31, 1970—exceeds its present needs, "largely because of previous cutbacks in military requirements for fissionable materials."

First tree products used by man were fruits, nuts and fuel wood.

Anti-War Group Purchases Seats

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam purchased 100 grandstand seats Wednesday for Monday's Inaugural Parade.

The seats cost the protest group $1,000.

Missouri And Iowa State Tangle In a Pivotal Game

COLUMBIA — Missouri and Iowa State — the Big Eight's two newest giant-killers — tangle here Saturday in what could be a pivotal game for the Tigers' basketball fortunes.

The 2:10 p.m. regionally-televized affair will be the Tigers' finale before the two-week semester exam period. Missouri won't resume league play until Feb. 1 against Nebraska and Coach Norm Stewart views the layoff as a welcome respite.

"The semester break should be nothing but beneficial to us," the Tiger boss said as his Tigers (8-6) awaited the Cyclones (7-8). "We've practiced all but two days since the start of the season."

Stewart added, "A victory against Iowa State, of course, should keep that winning idea in the players' minds while they are studying for their finals. Losing, however, we'll have to start all over again after the exams."

Both the Tigers and Cyclones will enter Saturday's game buoyed by a stunning, home-court upset over Kansas. M.U. nipped the Jayhawks on Theo Franks' 20-footer with eight seconds left Saturday, 47-46. Iowa State came from behind to drop K.U., 78-73, Monday in two overtimes at Ames.

The twin surprises constituted the first Big Eight wins of the season for each team. The Tigers stand 1-2 in the league, Iowa State 1-3.

The Tigers, their last triumph staged before a school record-setting crowd of 6,000 in Brewer fieldhouse, will be going for their sixth straight home court win. Away from home, Mizzou is playing at only a 3-6 pace.

One of the road verdicts came in the Big Eight tournament against coach Glen Anderson's Cyclones, 80-68. In that game, the Tigers established a meet record by converting all 18 of their free throw attempts. For the season, the Tigers are averaging only 67.2 per cent from the foul line.

"We played very well against Iowa State in the tournament," Stewart said, "but I'm really worried about this game. They are coming off two fine games (the other a near-miss 68-67 loss at Colorado Saturday) and this time they will have Jenkins back in the lineup."

Iowa State forward Aaron Jenkins missed the first Tiger game with an injury but scored a game-high 27 points Monday against Kansas. He was given top supporting help by lanky Bill Cain (6-6) who totaled 26.

Trailing by as many as 15 points in the first half, the Cyclones pulled even at the end of regulation time and had a final chance to win but guard

Jim Abrahamson missed two free throws. Abrahamson connected from the line in the second overtime, however, to help sink the Kansas.

Although Cain at 6-6 is Iowa State's tallest starter, the Cyclones still are adroit at drawing fouls. They attempted 44 charity tosses against Kansas while limiting the Jayhawks to only 16 tries.

Stewart plans no changes in his starting lineup Saturday. He'll continue with Franks and all-Big Eight tournament player Dave Pike at guards, Chuck Kundert at center and Don Tomlinson and Doug Johnson at forwards. Franks and Kundert each scored 14 against Kansas, while Tomlinson added 11 points and six assists.

Will Try Again

With the Hialeah race course opening it's 1969 racing season jockey Bobbie Ussery appears to be getting the jockey dressing room ready for all possibilities. But female jockey Barbara Rubin failed, because of a boycott by male jockeys, to become the first female to ride in US horse races at Tropical Park, so the 'Hers' sign may not be needed. She will without doubt try again, this time at Hialeah. (UPI)

Speed Might Be Grid Key

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Speed may be the key if the west is to outscore the east, in Sunday's National Football League All-Star game in Memorial Coliseum.

West Coach George Allen of the Los Angeles Rams worked with his several swift performers Friday as workouts faded off for both his squad and the East, piloted by Tom Landry of the Dallas Cowboys.

"We have great speed in the receiving positions, more so than last year, and nothing is more important than that in an all-star game," Allen observed.

He singled out for particular attention Clifton McNeil of the San Francisco 49ers, the League's leading pass receiver.

er. The slender fellow, a Cleveland castoff, caught 71 passes for 995 yards and scored seven touchdowns.

Allen has only to go back to the 49er - Ram exhibition game last season when McNeil early in the evening shocked his team with a 94-yard touchdown run on a flip from John Brodie.

The names of Carroll Dale of the Green Bay Packers, a former Ram before Allen came here, who oddly enough is playing in his first Pro Bowl contest, and Willie Richardson of the Baltimore Colts, were ticked off by the coach.

Also mentioned with frank admiration was Baltimore's John Mackey, who for his 224-pound size is astonishingly fast and once in motion, as difficult to haul down as a runaway steer.

Pilot Grove Beats Green Ridge Team

STOVER — Pilot Grove defeated Green Ridge Thursday night in the Stover Tournament 88-50 in a consolation game. Pilot Grove was led by Monk with 29 and Ellebracht with 18 points. Green Ridge high scorer was Ream with 19.

In the winners bracket game at 8:30, Lincoln defeated Stover 60-50. Lincoln's high scorer was McCain with 25 while Byler led Stover with 17.

Tomorrow night's games will see Leeton play Northwest in a consolation game at 7 p.m. At 8:30, Tusculumbia will play Otterville in a winner's bracket game.

College High Team Takes Chilhowee

KNOB NOSTER — College High of Warrensburg defeated Chilhowee in a consolation game Thursday night, 65-49. Miller and Morton led College High with 22 and 17 respectively. D. Courtney led Chilhowee with 28 points.

In the other consolation game, Warrensburg defeated St. Paul's of Concordia 74-52. Letterer and Roff scored 20 each for Warrensburg while Wardeman and Gienapp scored 16 for St. Paul's.

An Easy Rebound

Matmen Handle Foes New Way

COLUMBIA — Thanks to a Tiger with a sore paw, Missouri's wrestlers are starting to handle opponents in the fashion they patented last year.

The Tigers are now 3-1 and travel to Western Illinois for a double dual, Saturday, meeting small college power Winona State in the afternoon and the homesteading Leathernecks at night.

Even before he broke his hand in a pre-season practice session, Rick Thompson was not a flashy wrestler. But his presence on the squad and his methodical victories made the stocky tri-captain a man who could not safely be lost from the lineup.

With the wrestlers' morale scratching rock-bottom after the Christmas vacation, Thompson's bandaged hand was about their only good news because it had healed enough to permit him to lead practice and possibly even wrestle.

"Getting Thompson back was the best thing for us," Coach Hap Whitney said. "He's a regular and tri-captain and it gave our guys a boost. They thought, maybe we've got a chance. They had really gotten down on themselves. We worked pretty hard last week, we had four of the best practice days since I've been here."

Putting themselves in Thompson's hands, the wrestlers rebounded from a lackluster start marred by injuries and illness.

Last week they drubbed Central Missouri, 29-6 with Thompson stopping the Mules' unbeaten John Mellor, 5-3. They followed that with a 15-14 heartstopper over Kansas State. Of course, Thompson had a hand in that one with a 6-4 decision. Both victories for Rick came at 167 which is higher than his usual 160 weight class.

Missouri is still missing Bill Shepherd (137) and Jon Thomas (167) with injuries, but both could return before too much more of the season slips away. Whitney made one addition to

POLLY'S POINTERS

Practical Suggestions For Filing Clippings

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I would like Germaine to know I have made a filing cabinet for clippings and articles. My wife frequently uses it in her classroom and students in the area find it a fine source of information. The cabinet is four feet wide, seven feet high and all the shelves slide out except the middle one in each of the three vertical rows. These are fastened in securely to prevent the sides from bulging. Germaine will find that lumber companies are often glad to get rid of small pieces of 1/2-inch plywood or wallboard. A plywood door keeps the dust out and adds a better appearance. This type of cabinet keeps papers flat, neat and a pleasure to keep and file.—HELMUTH

DEAR POLLY—My father was a schoolteacher. He made scores of pigeon-hole-sized shelves in his study in which he would file his enormous collection of clippings for ready reference. He made the shelves out of orange crates. My way is different and I think more practical because I can work out a filing system much better. I use three-ring notebooks with clear plastic envelopes and black album inserts. It is easy to find clippings in these binders by subject matter, pull them out when I desire and they do not occupy too much space.—DAVID

DEAR POLLY and GERMAINE—I am a librarian and we traditionally file clippings by subject in file folders stored alphabetically by subject in file cabinets. Another way is to use divided boxes with the divider tabs labeled as to subject. The most difficult part is assigning subjects so that you will know where to look. Experiment with your own ideas or check the subject headings in your library or the indexes of applicable books.—OLIVIA

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—We recently moved into an old farmhouse and I cannot get rid of the many silver fish. I remember that my mother had an old remedy for destroying them but have forgotten what it was. Would like to hear of some way.—BEATRICE

Ann Landers

Coed Needs Reply For Sex Salesman

Dear Ann Landers: I was brought up by old-fashioned parents and I guess you'd be justified in calling me square. I'm a college sophomore and the only girl on the floor of this dorm who is a virgin. I grew up believing I should save myself for the man I marry, but these past few weeks have caused me to reconsider.

The big question, now that I have fallen in love, is this: Is it unrealistic to expect a young man to suffer the anxieties of frustration because his fiancée happens to believe as I do? Furthermore, will my rigidity cost me a wonderful husband?

Jack says the divorce rate scares him to death. He says he loves me but he's afraid we might not be sexually compatible. He feels we should find out before we marry. He has also suggested that I might be frigid. Last night he added another barb when he said, "A girl who teases is sadistic and immature."

You seem to have an answer for everything. Please tell me how to say no to a sex salesman with whom I happen to be in love. — NEED YOU

Dear Need: Here's your answer: "My body belongs to me and I don't owe you experimental privileges or an undress rehearsal."

What happens to your body is your responsibility and it is also your problem if something unplanned should occur. Jack's theory that it is smart to try things out to see if they work before you "buy" is rubbish. A salesman once sold me a vacuum cleaner that worked beautifully during the 30-day trial. For some mysterious reason it fell apart two days after I bought it.

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday the couple next door had a terrific argument. We could hear them screaming at each other although our houses are two lots apart. My husband I went to the front door to investigate.

Quick as a flash, their 3-year-old boy came dashing out the front door and ran into the street, directly in the path of an oncoming car. Fortunately, the driver was alert and stopped in time.

The child's father didn't say one word to him. Instead he yelled some obscenities at the driver. (He should have blessed him!) The driver just shook his head as the father shouted, "You rotten —, a child always has the right-of-way!"

Last year a trailer hit my car. I was driving slowly and carefully. According to the police, I had the right-of-way. But our little girl is dead, and she was all we had. That neighbor's boy could have been dead, too, yet he babbles about "right-of-way."

Every day pre-schoolers who

Will Avoid Clubs That Discriminate

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Fifty-four organizations in metropolitan Kansas City have pledged not to meet or hold meetings in Kansas City clubs that discriminate because of race. The Greater Kansas City Chamber of Commerce headed a list of 10 groups Thursday that endorsed a resolution sponsored by the Kansas City chapter of the American Jewish Committee.

Forty-four organizations previously had endorsed the resolution.

Bernard Hoffman, chairman of the Kansas City AJC, had named three groups he said discriminated. He named them as the University Club, the River Club and the Carriage Club.

A Large Family Assured

BOSTON (AP) — Talk about a ready-made family! Fred and Fran are starting out with 23 "kids."

Frederick J. O'Donnell, a widower, and Frances Brady, a widow, are assured of a big turnout for their marriage Feb. 2 at Blessed Sacrament Church in the Jamaica Plain section.

O'Donnell, an assistant city clerk, recently solved the housing shortage. He bought a three-family home and is converting it into a 16-room, one family residence.

O'Donnell, thin and bespectacled, has 13 children—seven sons and six daughters, ranging in age from 8 through 25. Mrs. Brady, plump and pretty, has 10 children, from 9 to 26.

"I know it sounds startling to most people, but when you have such a large family a few more doesn't present such a problem," O'Donnell said.

He added that Fran has three children married "and my three oldest girls will be sharing an apartment, so we will number only 19."

The children of each family joined in helping send wedding invitations. And, naturally, all are looking forward to the big day.

"The experience of raising a large family is unique," O'Donnell said. "It's really quite different from bringing up two or three."

"If two people in our situation fall in love, this experience creates a very special sort of bond."

How did the happy couple meet?

When Mrs. Brady took a job in the city clerk's department. And, naturally, they bumped into each other in the office where births and marriages are recorded.

"I was chatting with Fran and another widow on the staff," O'Donnell recalled Thursday. "When I went to get some refreshments, the other girl turned to Fran and said jokingly, 'He's a widower, but I hate to tell you. He has 13 children.'"

Four main groups of native peoples — southeast coastal Indians, Athabaskan Indians, Eskimos and Aleuts — are among Alaska's relatively small population.

Peace Talks to Open In Paris on Saturday

PARIS (AP) — The long-stalled Vietnam peace talks are to begin Saturday, eight months after the preliminary discussions got under way.

With the consent of their allies, the United States and North Vietnam announced today a breakthrough in the filibuster about the shape of the table the negotiators will use. The American, North Vietnamese, South Vietnamese and National Liberation Front delegations will sit around an unmarked round table at the International Conference Center.

W. Averell Harriman, the U.S. ambassador who is retiring from the talks this weekend, said the solution represented no victory for any side.

"It was not suggested by any one person," he said. "It was not a compromise, but just a decision that all could agree to, and satisfactory to all the participants of the conference."

Harriman hailed the agreement as an important step on the road to peace, saying it is possible that the talks may get fairly quickly to substantive matters, perhaps by the time his successor, Henry Cabot Lodge, arrives in a week or 10 days.

In Saigon, Foreign Minister Tran Chanh Thanh insisted the talks will be two-sided—the United States and Saigon vs. Hanoi and the Viet Cong's front. "This is the nearest we could get to the two sides we have been fighting for," Thanh said.

"It looks like a victory if you go back to the original North Vietnamese demand for a four-sided conference."

Two rectangular tables for secretaries will flank the round table at a distance of about 18 inches, and Thanh suggested these are sufficient to satisfy Saigon's demand for two-sided talks since they indicate a division between the allied and Hanoi-Viet Cong negotiators.

A U. S. spokesman refused to characterize the agreement in any way, or to say whether it represented a concession by the U. S. - Saigon side, which had been insistent all along on a marked table which would clearly show that the peace conference was two-sided.

Evidently the agreement was reached with the understanding that the two sides could view the conference in any way they chose, and the Americans and South Vietnamese still stress

War-End Recession Is Feared

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Cabinet-level report to President Johnson warns that the United States faces a possible recession when the Vietnam war ends, and urges that the government be ready with an action plan to stop it.

The report, sent to Congress today by the President, said the economy would be subjected to the same deflationary pressures that followed the Korean War.

While not predicting any date for an end to hostilities in Vietnam, the committee of top White House advisers based estimates on an assumption that the transition to peace could be essentially completed by July 1, 1971—in other words, the start of the 1972 fiscal year.

The report said that if the current 10 per cent income surtax is still in effect when the fighting ends, earlier phase-out of the tax could help offset any recession and promote healthy economic growth. It also urged that a detailed plan to speed up government spending on high priority projects be prepared now to cushion the impact of the transition from a war to peace economy.

The report of the Cabinet committee, under preparation since March 1967, carried the signatures of Defense Secretary Clark Clifford, Treasury Secretary Joseph Barr, Commerce Secretary C. R. Smith, Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz, Budget Director Charles J. Zwick and Chairman Arthur M. Okun of the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

Anticipating that the U. S. economy will be generating more than $1 trillion—one thousand billion—by 1972, the report said the cost of the Vietnam war has been a load for the U. S.

Red Space Triumph In a Crew Transfer

MOSCOW (AP) — Two Soviet cosmonauts transferred from one orbiting spaceship to another today, scoring a dramatic first for the Soviet space program.

The two space ships, Soyuz 4 and Soyuz 5, had linked up in orbit shortly before cosmonauts Yevgeny Khrunov and Alexei Yeliseyev made the transfer.

The official news agency Tass said they moved from Soyuz 5 to join Vladimir Shatalov in Soyuz 4, leaving Boris Volynov alone in Soyuz 5.

Tass said the two space ships separated after being locked together for 4 hours, 35 minutes.

There was no immediate word on the remainder of the flight program.

Radio Moscow said the two cosmonauts were outside the linked-up ships "about an hour."

Khrunov and Yeliseyev donned space suits just before the maneuver. Radio Moscow said the suits were equipped with a new life-support system.

"Thus Shatalov's two-day solitude in orbit was over," Tass said.

Khrunov exited from Soyuz 5 and climbed aboard the companion ship above the territory of South America. Yeliseyev made his move over the Soviet Union.

"The condition of all cosmonauts is good," Radio Moscow said.

Soyuz 4 hurtled into orbit Tuesday and Soyuz 5 followed a day later.

Tass described the space suits as "a new autonomous regeneration-type life-sustaining system." This appeared to mean that the cosmonaut could survive without the cable connected to the oxygen supply of the space ship.

The one-hour duration of the space walk was calculated from the moment the hatch of Soyuz 5 was opened to the time the hatch of Soyuz 4 was shut.

A Tass editor said that Khrunov and Yeliseyev passed into the working compartment of Soyuz 5, sealed it off from the crew quarters where Volynov was sitting, then opened the hatch.

Meanwhile, the editor said, Shatalov's working compartment hatch was opened as he remained isolated in his crew quarters.

After the transfer was completed, both hatches were closed and the working compartments were pressurized again.

In the Soyuz mission, the Soviet Union performed the world's first docking maneuver of two manned space ships. It also marked the Soviet Union's first manned docking of any kind.

Tass referred to the linkup as "the world's first experimental space station." It was not immediately clear whether the crew capsules of the ships would be detached for re-entry, leaving the working quarters in orbit. The Soyuz design is known to include this capability.

After the linkup earlier today a Moscow radio announcer declared the docking "guarantees the fulfillment of a great complex of experiments."

There also was no confirmation in Moscow that the Soviet Union might have launched a third spaceship this morning. The Bochum observatory in West Germany reported intercepting radio signals indicating a new launching.

Cosmonaut Vladimir Shatalov, hurled into space two days

Inauguration Trip By Local Families

Two Sedalia families will leave Friday to attend the presidential inauguration ceremonies for Richard Nixon in Washington, Jan. 17-21.

Those attending the various ceremonies by invitation are Senator and Mrs. John Ryan, and Mr. and Mrs. Aaron W. Haller and son Stephen.

Hazel Palmer, who also received an invitation and planned to attend, will be unable to do so because of illness.

Moon is Far Away Despite Red Feat

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — By successfully linking two manned space ships and transferring two crewmen, the Soviet Union has demonstrated it can assemble space stations for operations in earth orbit. But if they plan to beat Americans to a moon landing, the Russians will have to do much more.

Technical details of exactly how Russia plans to land cosmonauts on the lunar surface and return them to earth remain cloaked in secrecy. But knowledgeable western observers who specialize in assessing the Soviet space program generally believe cosmonauts don't have a chance of making it before 1970.

The United States, meanwhile, is expected to place its Apollo 11 astronauts on the lunar surface in mid-July of this year.

Unlike the U.S. program, which has Saturn 5 rockets powerful enough to propel men moonward with a single launch, the Soviets will require perhaps five or six difference launches to assemble in earth orbit the rockets, spacecraft and fuel supplies needed for a lunar landing, knowledgeable observers believe.

In addition, recent remarks by cosmonauts and Soviet officials after the Soyuz 3 flight by Col. Georgy Beregovoy last October indicate Soyuz craft cannot take heat and pressure builds of a 25,000-mile-an-hour reentry encountered by space ships returning to earth from the vicinity of the moon.

Soyuz craft can only reenter at earth orbital speeds of 17,500 miles an hour, the Soviets indicated.

If so, this means a flight to the moon using Soyuz would require firing from the lunar surface into earth orbit first, then reentering the atmosphere—an extremely difficult sequence which Russia has not yet proven it can accomplish.

Soviet officials have left no doubt in statements that the Soyuz series is aimed at construction of manned orbiting platforms. If Soyuz 1 succeeding in 1967 instead of ending in the death of a cosmonaut, they would have long since constructed and operated one.

Seeking Cause of Blasts Aboard Nuclear Carrier

PEARL HARBOR (AP)—The U.S. Navy carried on with cleanup operations aboard the nuclear aircraft carrier Enterprise today as investigators sought to pin down the cause of explosions and fire which killed 25 crewmen and injured 85.

A 26th sailor was missing in the disaster which struck the 85,000-ton warship on a training exercise 75 miles southwest of Honolulu Tuesday.

Adm. John J. Hyland, commander of the Pacific fleet, said he was "confident that we are going to be able to establish exactly what did happen and what caused it."

The explosions and fire put the Enterprise, world's largest combat vessel, out of action until repairs are completed. No official source would guess how long this would take.

It was indicated that the ship would start back to its home port of Alameda, Calif., as soon as possible.

"We'll choose the location which will be able to make repairs best and quickest so that we can return the Enterprise to service just as soon as it can possibly be done," said Hyland.

In Honolulu's Tripler Army Hospital, 58 injured crewmen were still under treatment, four in serious condition. Another nine were flown to a special burns treatment center at Brooke Army Hospital in Texas.

An air-sea search for a missing crewman was called off at sunset Wednesday.

Gutted aircraft and other debris littered the carrier's flight deck, but Cmdr. Samuel B. Lancaster, public affairs officer of the Enterprise, said a cleanup would be completed "in a couple more days."

The fire swept about 250 feet of the aft flight deck, destroying 15 planes loaded with bombs and rockets.

The vessel's propulsion system, which has eight nuclear reactors, was untouched.

Escape Injuries In Disaster

The two area servicemen serving aboard the Enterprise when it burst into flames Tuesday are uninjured.

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Bartlett, 1004 South Murray, received word Wednesday from their son, HM3 James L. Bartlett, Jr.

John Michael Hare, who was on the ship's third deck when the second explosion hit, has also contacted his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hare, Lincoln.

The blaze followed a series of at least 10 explosions which ripped gaping holes in the flight deck. One left a gash 26 feet long and 24 feet wide, penetrating into three lower decks.

Most of the dead were members of crews preparing a launch of planes, but the Navy said not one pilot was killed.

Lt. Cmdr. Perry Gard, 32, of Lemoore, Calif., a pilot, said he felt the concussion of the first explosion, looked up and saw a rising fireball.

"I sat there fascinated and wondering what was going on," he said. "Then it dawned on me that I had better get out of the plane."

In Tripler Army Hospital, Aviation Ordnanceman 2C Ronald N. Duden, 21, of St. Paul, Minn., said that after the first explosion he helped a pilot out of an A7 Corsair.

"I helped him to the catwalk, then picked up a fog foam hose to start fighting the fire and got knocked down several times by the explosions," Duden said.

"When it went, most of the rockets blew up where they were, but a couple went through the island. There were 500, 750 and 1,000 pound bombs on those planes."

Republicans are Dubious Of LBJ Budget Surplus

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans in Congress are complaining that the $195.3 billion spending budget submitted to Congress by President Johnson will produce a deficit instead of the surplus that Johnson claimed.

Democrats, meanwhile, indicated they will wait to see President-elect Nixon's legislative program before they act to put Johnson's proposals for full funding of welfare programs into effect.

Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said his fellow Republicans are waiting to "get the figuring straight" before pouncing on Johnson's contention that his budget would give Nixon a $3.4

billion surplus in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

But Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, a new member of the Senate Finance Committee, pinpointed the GOP's main objection. He said Johnson had counted as revenue surpluses being piled up in trust fund accounts for future Social Security and medicare benefits.

"What really counts," Miller said, "is the regular operating accounts. If deficits occur in these, they must be covered by increased federal borrowing—the root cause of the inflation that has been sweeping the country."

"This is a deceptive budget," Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., a Senate Armed Services Committee member, said the course of the Vietnam war will have a heavy influence on the ability of the new administration to operate in the black.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said Johnson had taken "a courageous course" in recommending increased welfare spending, and "I hope that President Nixon will see the need for continuing programs to meet our domestic problems."

Kennedy, assistant Senate Democratic leader, and a possible candidate for his party's 1972 presidential nomination, said he thinks most Democrats will want to see Nixon's program before drafting any alternative proposals.

"The responsibility lies with the President-elect to suggest action in a variety of fields," he said. "Hopefully there will be an early meeting of the Democratic Policy Committee to identify the areas in which the party ought to move to meet the needs."

"I am sure we will want to develop our own priorities but we must wait to see what Mr. Nixon proposes."

While he said the Pentagon held that generally accepted accounting principles were followed in this case, the General Accounting Office concluded the Defense Department had been overcharged $5 million.

Defense Department officials, said Rickover, claim they have "no knowledge of excessive profits," yet "they have no knowledge of the profits being made on more than 50 per cent of their contracts."

Notes of Sympathy Continue to Arrive

Messages continue to arrive at The Democrat and the home of the late D. Kelly Scruton, expressing sorrow at Mr. Scruton's death:

RICHARD S. BROWNLEE (Director and Secretary, State Historical Society of Missouri) — George, I can't tell you how shocked and saddened I was to hear of Kelly's untimely death. It is hard to believe that such a vibrant, stimulating person is no longer with us. Will you please accept my deepest sympathy and pass it along to the rest of the family.

E. N. PIZER (Publisher, Tipton Times) — Terribly sorry about Kelly. We had talked with him and his wife just a few minutes before his passing. Thought at the time he looked unusually well. The newspaper fraternity has lost an influential member and we a staunch friend.

MRS. GLORIA G. FREEMAN (Kansas City College of Medical and Dental Assistants) — It was with great shock I read of Kelly's death. He was such a good friend to me when I was with the Missouri State Fair. I cannot imagine a fair without Kelly. He was honest and spoke the truth as he saw it. He died amid the colorful activities he so dearly loved. My deepest sympathy for your great loss. Ruth, you two are inseparable in my thoughts. When I think of one I automatically think of the other.

SHIELDS R. SMITH: (Webster Groves) — I was shocked, George, to read in the Globe-Democrat of the sudden death of Kelly while he was attending the inaugural ball. Early in the century when I was a resident of Sedalia, Dr. Ferguson and I would often visit your father, Kelly, when he was a little fellow would play on the floor at our feet. I send you and Kelly's family my heartfelt sympathy.

WILLIAM H. HALL (Director, Sedalia Department of Industrial Development) — It is with great shock and sorrow, George, that I learned of the passing of your brother and my friend.

I have only known Kelly for

Excess Defense Profits Are Blasted By Admiral

WASHINGTON (AP)—Adm. Hyman G. Rickover charged in testimony released today that defense contractors are collecting "an unnecessary" $2 billion a year on Pentagon contracts because of procurement regulations that are "toothless, loose and outmoded."

The admiral, observing that similar criticism over the years "has earned me disfavor among some of my superiors," called for a drastic overhaul by Congress of defense Department procurement procedures. Neither the Pentagon, the Commerce Department nor the General Accounting Office will, or can, do it, he said.

Rickover testified during hearings on defense industry profits by the Joint Economic subcommittee headed by Sen. William Proxmire, Dix-Wis.

The hearings, held last November, were called after a series of articles on defense spending by The Associated Press Special Assignment Team revealed that there is no independent auditing of more than $10 billion a year spent by the Defense Department for goods and services. This is money allocated for contracts which are not subject, because of various exemptions to review by the Renegotiation Board.

At one point in Rickover's testimony, Proxmire observed, "This is shocking; this is really shocking."

"What is so shocking about it, sir?" replied the admiral. "It has been going on for many years."

Rickover head of the program to develop nuclear propulsion plants for naval ships, told the subcommittee:

1. A Defense Department official refused to approve one of his program's $50 million contracts "because he thought the contractor should get a higher profit than the latter had previously agreed to accept."

"Another Department of Defense procurement official told me I had no business negotiating a profit lower" than suggested by procurement regulations.

Cogent and Free, Too . . .

What is one of the finest examples of its type, should be in the home of every public-spirited Missourian, and doesn't cost a red cent? The answer is the Missouri Conservationist, the prize-winning publication of the Missouri Department of Conservation.

Living in an age, as we do, when the natural environment seems to be fading away before our eyes, when water and air pollution have reached the proportions of a national emergency, Missourians have an urgent responsibility to keep well-informed on conservation matters. The Missouri Conservationist meets this need with an attractive, cogent and even courageous magazine.

Missourians are fortunate to live in a state that boasts some of the most beautiful scenery and recreational areas in the Midwest. But our state's natural blessings are not immune to the ravages of our fast-moving society. Threats to our fish, wildlife, clear-running rivers and unspoiled woods come from a variety of sources. The protection and proper management of these resources is a matter of concern for all of us, and there's no better place to start than to take out a subscription to the Conservationist.

Just send your name, address and ZIP code to the Conservationist, North 10 Mile Drive, Jefferson City, Mo., 65101. Remember, it's free, and you can't say that about many things nowadays.

On either the second or fourth Wednesday of each month, after 7:30 p.m., any Sedalian can take a walk up to the City Hall and find 13 men who are hard at work for him.

They are the members of the Home Rule Commission, elected Nov. 5 to prepare a proposed city charter for Sedalia. Many of them are finding out, the hard way, just how complex a job it is to run a city the size of Sedalia.

While it will be some time yet before Sedalians are presented with the fruits of the commission's labors, what is worthy of note, at this point, is the commissioners' excellent record of attendance. Neil Chapman, chairman, reports that at no time have less than 11 of the 13 commissioners been present at meetings.

Anyone who has tried to get people together for any purpose these days knows what an accomplishment that is. It is indicative of keen interest on the part of each member in doing the best possible job in this pioneering venture.

We commend the commission's vigorous beginnings, and say keep up the good work!

Secret Hearings for Confirmations

By DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON — Sen. William Fulbright, the Rhodes scholar from Arkansas, has ditched his creed of open covenants openly arrived at to hold secret hearings on the confirmation of William P. Rogers as Secretary of State and Elliot Richardson as Under Secretary.

Both appear to be highly qualified men and in the past Chairman Fulbright has raised unshirred Hades with the Johnson administration for too much secrecy.

One point in the career of Elliott Richardson is unfortunate and could be a reason for Chairman Fulbright's secret hearings. Richardson, now Attorney General of Massachusetts, was a far-sighted HEW executive under Eisenhower. He had a good record in government — except for alcoholism.

It is a firm rule of the State Department that an alcoholic is a security risk. The theory is that he's subject to blackmail, or can be indiscreet under the influence of liquor and leak security information.

Fortunately alcoholism can be cured and one notable example is that of newly elected Sen. Harold Hughes, former governor of Iowa. Hughes made no pret of his problem, triumphed over it, and the people of Iowa gave him credit for it.

Prospective Under Secretary of State Richardson should also be given the breaks. But the public also is entitled to the facts. Furthermore, publication of the facts may help keep a public figure on the wagon.

Richardson's 15 automobile convictions extend over a period from 1938 to 1964, including two states, Massachusetts and New Hampshire, and the District of Columbia. Most of his arrests, though involving speeding, appear to be minor, but three involved driving under the influence of liquor with serious fines and license suspended.

—First Brush with Law—

The new Under Secretary of State's first significant brush with the law was at the age of 19 when much could be forgiven — if he had learned from his lesson. Richardson was arrested on May 6, 1939, at 8:30 p.m. for operating under the influence of liquor on Beacon Street in Boston. The arresting officer, Walter F. Waite, stated that Richardson had collided with a safety island and his car had to be towed to the uptown garage.

"Richardson was very abusive at the time of his arrest and threatened to have me fired," Officer Waite stated. "He stated that his Uncle Henry L. Shattuck would fix the case and then take care of me. Richardson was very profane and disorderly at the time."

Richardson subsequently pleaded guilty to "operating a motor vehicle so that the lives and safety of the public might be endangered" and to driving "under the influence of intoxicating liquor." He was fined a total of $75 and his license suspended.

Richardson's worst brush with the law came 12 years later on an April night in 1951 when at 2 a.m.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Sedalia Local No. 55, M-K-T Carmen installed the following officers: L. V. Morris, president; Al Walls, vice-president; E. E. Ulmer, recording secretary; A. W. Buhlig, financial secretary; W. G. Jackel, treasurer; King Hyatt, guide; Fred Shaw, warden; T. H. Quigley, sentinel; H. A. Stephens, chaplain; H. C. Rogers, R. Hyatt and J. M. Carpenter, trustees; Local board, K. P. Smith, chairman; A. P. Stanfield, vice-chairman; H. M. Curbey, secretary.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The first bank merger in the State of Missouri in 1929 was that of the Houstonia Bank which took over the Farmers Bank there by approval of the State Finance Commissioner. The total banking resources of the selling bank are approximately $75,000. It was chartered in 1915 and capitalized at $15,000.

NINETY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The nation debt has been steadily increasing for some months, notwithstanding the enormous taxes people are paying. Last month added about $900,000 to our public "blessing" and for the life of us we cannot see reasons for the increase. The debt should be paid off instead of being increased.

he struck a stop sign at 347 Clark Road in Brookline, then traveled through a hedge alongside the sidewalk.

—Democrats Are Tolerant—

The arresting officer, Neil F. Doherty of the Brookline Police force, stated: "On about 11:30 a.m. April 22, 1951, I commenced an investigation of a reported hit-and-run property damage accident. The accident occurred at about 2 a.m. this date. . . . I interviewed the defendant (Elliott Richardson) and asked him if he had an accident last night or this morning and he said no.

"I asked him about the hedge and the twigs on the front of his car and he said he could not account for them. I asked him where he was, and he said at a party in Cambridge. I asked him if he had been drinking, and he said yes. He stated he had been drinking cocktails. I asked him if he was drunk, and he said he did not think so. I said, 'you were at least under the influence of liquor,' and he said that he guessed that he was."

Richardson pleaded guilty and paid a $200 fine. His license was suspended.

While in Washington, D.C., in 1949, Richardson also had his license suspended for 30 days, but the record is not clear regarding the details. On January 24, 1964, he was arrested for speeding at Farmington, New Hampshire, and fined $15. There were 11 other arrests, most of them minor.

During the last Republican administration, approximately 50 State Department officials were forced to "resign" because of alcoholism or kindred problems which allegedly made them security risks. The present Democratic Congress plans to be more lenient with the new Republican administration. A man of Richardson's otherwise excellent talents should not be lost to government — provided he can overcome a weakness which if not controlled could be serious.

THE ALABAMA JOURNAL: Why Embarrassed?

— Jim Nabors, young actor from Sylacauga who plays Gomer Pyle, made news when he was overcome by the temptation to buy a Rolls-Royce. "Me and my sisters — Ruth and Freddie — used to walk every place in Sylacauga or hitch rides. I fell in love with this car and I just felt I had to have it."

So he bought it, but not without embarrassment for having indulged himself in such luxurious fashion. The question is, why should he feel guilty? He's hit it big in the entertainment business. Why shouldn't he be able to blow a bundle on an expensive car without pangs of conscience?

Perhaps he's afraid that his cosmopolitan tastes might damage his folksy image. More than likely, however, he is a victim of American mores about the use of wealth. David Brinkley's comment about sums it up: "An attitude widely held in this country (but almost nowhere else) is that it may not always be sinful to have a lot of money, but it is vaguely sinful to enjoy it and unforgivably sinful to do so in public."

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q — I want to sell some stock I own before the end of the year so that I can deduct my losses on this year's return. Does the stock actually have to be sold by the end of the year or is it enough to have notified your broker by December 31?

A — On the sale of stock, the date your stock was sold at a loss is the one you should use for tax purposes. If this date, or trade date as it is sometimes called, came in your 1968 tax year then the transaction can be reported on your 1968 return. However, gains are reported in the year you have actual or constructive receipt of the money.

Peace Up to U.S., Soviet In Mideast Power Game

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Foreign News Analyst

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (NEA)

In the Middle East's rapidly deteriorating situation, only joint action by the United States and Russia appears to offer any hope of bringing the Arabs and Israel to the peace table.

The second-ranking diplomats in the United Nations do whatever they can to prevent a new outbreak of large-scale hostilities in the strife-torn area.

They repeat long speeches they had already made at other emergency sessions of the Security Council. They pass moral judgments. In the end they usually condemn Israel alone for "overreacting" to Arab terrorism since the Russians have long ago served notice that they will exercise their right to veto any motion to censure President Nasser's guerrillas.

But what the U.N.'s loquacious moralists refuse to acknowledge—publicly at least—is that the conflict in the strategic and oil-rich Middle East is basically a struggle between the West and the Communist worlds.

This is a simple and elementary truth that is usually obscured by the din of Arab-Israeli raids, reprisals, threats and counterthreats.

Surely it was not because of Arab-Israeli friction that President Eisenhower "overreacted" in May, 1958, and dispatched Marines to Lebanon to prevent a Communist insurrection.

Nor are the Arabs and Israel responsible for the expansion of Soviet naval strength in the Mediterranean and the recent visit to the Black Sea of two American warships.

Need one repeat the obvious? Moscow's imperialist aims in the Middle East have a long history that goes back to the czars. East-West rivalry in the area has merely grown in intensity since the 1955 summit meeting in Geneva where former Soviet Premier Khrushchev assured Eisenhower of Russia's peaceful intentions.

Indeed, had it not been for Israel's amazing six-day victory over the Arabs in June, 1967, the Russians would today be in a vastly stronger position in the Middle East. This accounts in a large measure for the upsurge of anti-Semitism in Russia and Communist Poland and the Kremlin's savage attacks on Israel.

"It is not for idealistic reasons that the United States has decided to sell Phantom jets to Israel," a Western diplomat said. "If Israel did not exist, the Americans would have to invent it."

While the bitter conflict between the Arabs and Israel adds fuel to the Middle Eastern fires, it also prevents a direct confrontation between NATO and the Communists.

In the long run, then—without minimizing the intensity of Arab-Israeli antagonisms—it is only an agreement between the United States and Russia that could bring some peace to the Middle East. The futile rhetoric in the United Nations only confuses the issues.

The Russians, as usual, are playing a double game. They hope to increase their influence in the Middle East by manipulating their traditional policy of neither peace nor war. They need a "twilight zone" between peace and war which would give them an opportunity to go on strengthening their economic, political and military position in the Arab countries.

But what makes it likely that the incoming Nixon administration will be able to reach an understanding with Moscow is the fact that the Kremlin leaders, like the United States, are anxious to keep the Middle East from exploding in war again.

The Russians have their hands full in Czechoslovakia and elsewhere in the Communist world. Peking's latest nuclear explosion was a grim reminder that Russia's main enemy is Red China. The Kremlin's uneasy rulers also realize the risk of a conflict with NATO should their Arab clients get out of hand.

According to East European diplomats, it was to warn Egypt's President Nasser against further escalation of Arab-Israeli armed clashes that Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko made an urgent trip to Cairo.

Soviet military strategists never cherished a war on two fronts—with China on the east and NATO on the west.

Thus, as long as the nuclear nations are determined to avoid a head-on collision, the danger of a war in the Middle East should not be exaggerated. It is the big powers, and not the Arabs or Israel, who hold the key cards in the Middle East.

"The new constitution is much more democratic. The majority rules—unless, of course, you think the majority is misguided!"

We are indebted to the staff of the Bridge World magazine for today's hand. A page and a half was used for theoretical discussion of which spades East should play from his queen-jack-10-eight combination.

North's four-heart bid was invented by the Four Aces back in the '30s. It shows good trump support but denies any ace or king. South's jump to six hearts is based on the hope that his partner will hold the queen of spades.

West gets off to the inspired lead of his singleton trump. South wins in his hand. If he makes the equally inspired play of the spade king, he will make his slam easily because West won't be able to lead a second trump. However, South leads a low spade and, according to the Bridge World experts, it will be a cinch for East to see that he must win with a spade honor, not an eight.

Then he leads a second trump. South will win and lead a second small spade. He will ruff in dummy and East must play another of his spade honors. South will enter his hand with a minor suit ace and will have a problem. If he plays another low spade he will knock out West's ace and make the hand but if East has played the correct honors, South may decide that East started with queen-jack-10 and lead his king in the hope of bumping the ace and the last honor together.

The Bridge World consensus was that East's best chance to get South to make that play would be to play first the queen, then the 10. Our own opinion is that the whole discussion is pointless. No matter which cards East plays, South's best line is to hope that the ace will drop and to keep playing low spades.

Betty Canary Off the Hook

"Home," a salesman uncle of mine always says, "is the place where you can trust the hash."

We all expect sanctuary and sympathy at home. It is, after all, the place where, no matter what your beliefs or how sour your attitude, you still belong. And, I suppose our family is typical. The adults are even capable of acknowledging, with grace, that we are somewhat of a burden for the younger members.

At a family dinner recently, Janie, who is 14, said bitterly, "This is just a nest of WASPs!"

"What's that?" her mother asked, waspishly.

"White Anglo-Saxon Protestants."

We gathered solicitously about her. "It isn't our fault," her grandmother said. "We were just born this way, dear."

"You are all so hopelessly middle class!"

"Isn't that better than upper-middle class or lower-upper class?"

"And who else admits they have ALWAYS been middle class?" her father asked. "Everybody else I know claims they were rich until their father lost everything in the Crash."

"You read the Wall Street Journal!" Janie accused.

"Yes," he admitted, watching his stock plummet on Janie's market. The family's stock, I would say, was practically a bankrupt issue.

"We know how you feel, dear," grandmother said. "But remember that grandfather always said nice things about Norman Thomas and we paid your cousins' bus fare to all their peace marches."

"And, although it was a long time ago, your ancestors were immigrants!"

"Not all of us vote Republican either!"

"There is an old family story that we might even have some Indian blood," grandmother said.

"Really?"

"I'm not promising. I just thought you'd like to know." Grandmother put her arms around Janie. "I want you to understand that even if some of us go to PTA and do church work and read the Wall Street Journal and Reader's Digest, well, we still belong to you and we love you very much."

As a result of this speech, grandmother's stock jumped some 20 points. The family's sluggishness went up three.

Regulation A Must For Vitamin Intake

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q — What vitamin or foods can be taken for a deficiency in night vision?

A — Vitamin A, which is found abundantly in milk, butter, fortified margarine, eggs, liver, kidneys and carrots and other green or yellow vegetables.

Q — In a recent column you stated that the daily requirement of vitamin A is 2,500 to 5,000 units. I am taking vitamin capsules that contain 25,000 units each. Could they hurt me?

A — Yes, if they are taken regularly for several months. Such capsules are given to cure a definite vitamin deficiency.

Q — A friend who says she can't afford a balanced diet compensates by taking vitamin and iron pills. Can't these be harmful in time?

A — If the recommended daily requirements for vitamin A (see above) and vitamin D (400 units) are not exceeded, there would be no danger of vitamin poisoning. The other vitamins are not stored in the body and can be taken in unlimited amounts. The daily requirement for iron is 0.5 to 1 milligram for men and 0.7 to 2 milligrams for women.

Q — About three years ago I took an overdose of vitamins A and D. It has left me with pains in my bones. What can I do to ease these pains?

A — Bone pains can occur with vitamin A poisoning, less frequently with vitamin D poisoning. The only treatment is prompt withdrawal of the vitamin supplements. Since three years is a long time for the pain to persist, your doctor should determine whether there is any other cause for your present pains. If not, you might try aspirin. If that doesn't help, have your doctor give you one of the other nonhabit-forming pain killers.

Q — Is halibut liver oil a better source of vitamins A and D than cod liver?

A — Yes. Each gram of halibut liver oil (U.S. Pharmacopeia) contains 60,000 units of vitamin A and 600 units of vitamin D. Each gram of cod liver oil (USP) contains only 600 and 85 units respectively.

Q — In a recent column you said that amyotrophic lateral sclerosis can be helped by pancreatic supplement. Since vitamin E stimulates the pancreas, wouldn't it work just as well?

A — There is no sound evidence at present that vitamin E will stimulate the pancreas.

Rings on Her Fingers

Rings are competing conspicuously with the love necklaces and exotic pendants. The most bejeweled lady may adorn all ten fingers with rings and be in vogue this season. In addition rings can be weapons. A ring clustered with stones, real or fake, may have sharp edges and cut deeply into a hand which is shaken. Also, rings can carry poisons, depending upon one's knowledge of chemistry. The famous Lucrezia Borgia couldn't wear more than two rings before arousing suspicion. More appropriate use for the present fad would be a ring containing aspirin in its secret compartment, if required.

Whatever possible uses the ring fashion may suggest, sheer adornment is the best, leaving the poison-containing jewels to history. Do not be surprised to see the fingerless gloves appearing on the fashion scene by Easter. Why cover the rings on milady's fingers?

Remove Coffee Stains

DEAR POLLY—Please tell George that he can remove coffee stains from the inside of his vacuum cups by putting a tablespoon or more of bleach in them, then filling the cups with warm water. Let soak until the stains seem to be gone. If they are hard to get out, a sponge soaked in bleach can be used for scrubbing them. Be sure to wash the cups in hot water and soap afterwards.—LINDY

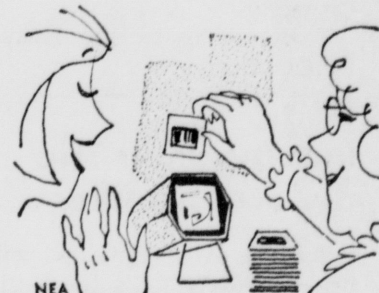

DEAR POLLY—In answer to George's problem, I wish to say that I clean my plastic coffee cups with a damp cloth and silver polish, then wash them in soapy water. This helps mine every time and I hope helps George, too.—MRS. R. H. SR.

DEAR POLLY—I use a lot of nail polish of different kinds. Merely shaking a bottle before using is not enough to mix the white sediment with the color. Without this mixing, the polish is too dark. I do hope some Polly's Pointers readers can tell me how to mix nail polish thoroughly.—CHERYL

DEAR POLLY—If you have an elderly or shut-in friend or relative, pack up a group of your pictures or slides for that person to enjoy and later return. Take along a small viewer and this will pass some time for a lonely person. Much nicer than trying to tell them about a trip you recently enjoyed.—HELEN

DEAR POLLY—When putting away freshly laundered bed linens, I put everything that goes on one bed in a neat stack (sheets, pillowcases, bedspread, etc.) in the linen closet. Do this for each bed. When the day for changing beds come, it will be a much quicker job.—MRS. J. P.

Juveniles Questioned About Fire

Two juvenile boys, aged 10 and 12, were taken into custody Wednesday by Sedalia Detective Sgt. Perry Franklin in connection with a fire on the E. W. Thompson farm Tuesday night which destroyed a barn, doing an estimated $20,000 damage.

According to Franklin, an investigation Wednesday led to the apprehension of the two boys about 4:30 p.m. Franklin said the youths admitted having been in the barn about 5 p.m. the day of the fire.

Franklin said the youths stated they were smoking cigarettes in the barn. Authorities believe that sparks from a cigarette may have caused the fire, which destroyed about 500 tons of hay.

Both boys were questioned by juvenile authorities and released to the custody of their parents Thursday morning.

According to Juvenile Officer James Newland, there was no evidence to support holding the youths since there apparently was no fire at the time the boys left the barn at 5 p.m.

The fire itself was not reported to the Sedalia fire department until 7:38 p.m. Tuesday.

Newland indicated there was no connection between this incident and the one which caused the destruction of the Pepsi-Cola plant here Jan. 5.

Notes

WILLIAM H. HALL (Director, Sedalia Department of Industrial Development) — It is with great shock and sorrow, George, that I learned of the passing of your brother and my friend.

I have only known Kelly for the past three years, but it has been a time I have counted as a rich blessing. He was an individual who captured my respect and attention wherever he was and whatever he was doing. There was a certain glint in his eye when he had just handed me advice and a sincerity when he told me that I might be on the wrong track. Our discussions ran from politics to Lions Clubs to Sedalia in general. I am happy that I counted D. Kelly Scruton as one of my friends.

Kelly will be remembered in this community, and will be greatly missed... remembered for activity in the community both socially and in the sports of this area. He will be missed for that "something" he always added to any gathering. He'll be missed because he could take a joke as well as pass one out, and remembered because very few people could ever "top" what Kelly had to say.

I take consolation in the fact that we all can remember Kelly met his maker doing what he enjoyed doing most.

We can all be proud to say, "Sedalia is where Kelly Scruton lived."

WALTER DEAR (Publisher, Henderson (Ky.) Gleaner-Journal, and assistant treasurer of The Sedalia Democrat Co.) — Martha joins me in expressing our sympathy to you, Ruth. Kelly was the salt of the earth. A real personality on the Missouri scene and a warm personal friend to me. I always felt a little better when I was around Kelly because he went out of his way to be extra pleasant to me.

D. R. C. GORDON STAUFFACHER (Sedalia) — I am sorry that physically I am unable to come over and see you, Ruth, but I want to express our sincere feeling of deep loss in the death of Kelly, and express our condolences, sympathy and desire to help in anything Lucile and I can do. Kelly has always been what I considered one of my closest friends. He was godfather to my youngest daughter. I remember the many things we have been in together over the years — Golden Gloves, races at the fair, out on the road accidents, and social contacts with your family in general, all fond and treasured memories. God bless you and yours.

Beatles 'Losing Money'

London(AP)—John Lennon said in an interview published today that he and his fellow Beatles will be broke in six months if their organization—Apple—goes on losing money at the present rate.

Lennon's statement immediately brought a denial that the company was in deep financial trouble but an admission that its management is undergoing change.

The interview with Lennon was published by a pop music weekly, Disc and Music Echo. In it the 28-year-old Beatle was quoted as saying:

"We haven't got half the money people think we have. It's been pie-in-the-sky from the start. Apple's losing money every week because it needs close running by a big businessman.

"It doesn't need to make vast profits but if it carries on like this all of us will be broke in the next six months."

The $2.4 million company was set up with interest covering music publishing, television, shops, movies and electronics.

Its headquarters in London's Savile Row—bought for $1.2 million a year ago—has a staff of 30 to 40 persons.

"Apple needs a new broom and a lot of people there will have to go," Lennon said.

An official of the company commented: "Let the quote rest."

But later Apple issued a statement saying managerial changes were being made.

"We have our businessman and we are doing our streamlining," the statement said. "Our records are hits. Our misses are magnified. Our future is magnificent."

A spokesman added: "What John said in the interview was true. What Apple says now is true. The times they are a'changing."

Rumors circulated through London's pop music world that Harrison and Lennon had a fierce quarrel that broke up rehearsals for a Beatle television spectacular last weekend.

A colleague who did not wish to be named denied that the two stars came to blows and said it was "just a personal tiff."

The amazing TUNG-SOL NEW guard-glo HEADLAMP!

minimizes the danger of "one headlight" driving

Cars driving at night with a burned out headlamp are a real menace. The new TUNG-SOL headlamp minimizes this danger with a new reserve filament that keeps on glowing when the main filament burns out. It does not burn with full intensity. But it glows bright enough to be distinguished by other cars, gives extra miles of safety until it can be replaced. You may need Guard Glo tonight.
